Introduction to the National Science Foundation's Directorate for Social, Behavioral, and Economic Sciences

Northeastern University is hosting a webinar on the programs and funding opportunities sponsored by the National Science Foundation's (NSF) Directorate for Social, Behavioral, and Economic Sciences (SBE). The 90-minute virtual session will introduce divisions and programs within SBE and focus on ways that academics from diverse disciplinary backgrounds can successfully position their work to compete for SBE funding. Attendees will learn about SBE priorities and new initiatives from Dr. Mary Feeney, Ph.D., Program Director of the NSF Science of Science: Discovery, Communication, and Impact program. The webinar will also feature a panel of Northeastern faculty experts, who will share their insights and experiences applying for SBE research grants. Registration is required for this event, which will occur on January 30, 2024 at 8:00 a.m.

Resource for Researchers

The book, "Demystifying the Academic Research Enterprise: Becoming a Successful Scholar in a Complex and Competitive Environment," by Kelvin K. Droegemeier is available for free PDF download, accessible from Research Development Services Proposal Development webpage. The topics covered in the book include public perceptions of scholarly work and its use in policy; understanding the big picture of funding and national priorities as well as identifying funding sources; research methods; collecting data and materials; writing grant proposals; publishing results; ethical conduct; bias and peer review; intellectual property and compliance regulations; partnerships and collaboration; diversity, equity, and inclusion; and the future of research.
