

Sample Debriefing Form: Online Study

Background: In this study, we were [insert description of what the study was about, sample text is in italics] curious about how personality traits relate to how people describe honesty or dishonesty. The personality inventory measures a variety of personality dimensions (including honesty). Some participants were then presented with a deception motive while others were not, and we are interested in how people describe what they would tell someone in social situations (if there was a deception motive present or not).

Only the trained principal investigators will handle your data from this study without any identifying information in any research presentation or article.

Your part: The part you play in this research is very important! Just giving us an idea about the situations when people may be honest or not helps us to understand what sorts of relationships to personality there may be.

Feedback and further information: If you agree to allow us to use your data, here is how we will maintain confidentiality of the information. Only by the trained principal investigators will have access to the data submitted in this study, no identifying information will be revealed in any research presentation or article, and all data will be stored on password-protected servers accessible by the principal investigators. The main researcher conducting this study is [First name, last name] at the University of Oregon.

If there are any questions about the study, please contact [First name, last name] at [email address]. If you have questions about your rights or wish to speak with someone other than the research team, please contact the University of Oregon Research Compliance Services (RCS) at 541-346-2510 or researchcompliance@uoregon.edu.